That which cannot be attained by natural means, is called a secret.
The magical secrets are seven in number.

The first is to gather together much money.

The second is to receive dignities and honors, and to be illustrious and do great things.

The third is to be a friend of those holding positions of authority.

The fourth is to have one's carnal needs satisfied.

The fifth is to be successful in business.

The sixth is to have understanding of all things visible and invisible.

The seventh is to have the obedience of all elemental spirits.

If you wish to know these Secrets of Magic, reveal not those secrets to others, and know how to keep secret things hidden.

- The White Grimoire

Most people are rather skeptical about Magic and Witchcraft, and require proof as to its potency. Put simply, Magic is the Art of using means which are invisible to produce results which are visible. Imagination, desire and willpower - faculties all of us possess, the control of which is known as Magic.

PART ONE: THE SPELLS OF THE FOUR HORSEMEN

Although these Spells may be worked anywhere, at anytime, it is best that you always use the same room. The main item of furniture in the room is an altar. A small coffee table will do just fine. Cover the altar with white cloth and, in the center place a square piece of white paper. On either side of the paper, toward the rear of the altar stand a tall, white candle.

Your altar is now complete.

THE MAGIC SEAL OF THE FOUR HORSEMEN

Central to working with the Four Horsemen is the Circle Numitor. The symbols in the circle are very important to working the magic described in this section of the book.

On the white paper which you have placed at the center of the altar, draw a circle divided into four equal parts. In the upper-left corner draw a Trident, in the upper-right a Hand, in the lower-left a Helmet, and in the lower-right a Key. Draw a second circle around the first, and the Seal of the Four Horsemen is complete.

THE FOUR HORSEMEN AND THEIR POWERS

The First Horseman is, Discon. His Power is to grant dignities, riches, luxury, success, beauty and eloquence of speech. His sign is the Trident.

The Second Horseman is, Amabis. His Power is to grant understanding of all things visible and invisible. His sign is the Hand.

The Third Horseman is, Atorn. His Power is to grant the obedience of all the elemental spirits. His sign is the Helmet.

The Fourth Horseman is, Necas. His Power is to grant the friendship of persons in positions of authority. His sign is the Key.

INVOCATION OF THE FOUR HORSEMEN

On a clear night, three days before the Moon is full, enter the room and light the two candles. Sit, stand or kneel before the altar and spend a few minutes gazing upon the Seal of the Four Horsemen. Then say:

Discon, who stands in the North, hear me!

Amabis, who stands in the East, hear me!

Atorn, who stands in the South, hear me!

Necas, who stands in the West, hear me!

I request Thine aid in my affairs.

I state my purpose thus. . .

From this point in the magical working you always begin to cast a Spell.

The magical working is repeated until the night of the Full Moon.
